105.2245_interviewfolder_n.d._p1

CHARLES DERIVAUX

Finger Print Clerk in Newark Bureau of Identification.

Visited saplings with Mason, Schwartz and Day. Saw shrubbery broken near cedar sapling. Unshod hoof marks which looked too small for a horse. Manure, but did not know its kind, and holes in ground made by the pounding of hoofs of some animal. Had heard that there had been a great many people in the vicinity but there were no other marks in the vicinity of the mule marks.

105.2245 p2

CHARLES E. DERIVAUX

August 18, 1926

Finger Print Clerk in Newark Bureau of Identification

TESTIFIED (Page 676 et seq.):

Present at saplings with Mason, Schwartz and Day. Shrubbery broken near cedar sapling (676).

Unshod hoof marks looked too small for horse (676).

Saw manure; did not know kind (677).

Holes in ground made by pounding of hoofs of some animal(677).

Had heard that there had been a great many people in the vicinity (678).

REDIRECT:

No other marks in the vicinity of the mule marks (678).